

Twyning

By This is Gloucestershire | Posted: July 26, 2008

01684 93686

maryhaines@hotmail.co.uk

Twyning Village Hall was the venue of a production of 'The Higher Ground'. The play written by Mike Akers was based on floods using ideas from memories and stories provided by schools and organisations in the area affected last year and having personal experiences.

The production was staged by the Stroud Theatre Company and funded by The Directorate for Children and Young People, Gloucestershire County Council. The play using a minimum of props and excellently performed by Georgina Stamp and Gerard Cooke left us in no doubt about the gravity and dangers of rapid flooding.

Read more: <http://www.gloucestercitizen.co.uk/Twyning/story-11854263-detail/story.html>